

Job Description: In-community Interviewer

*Do you consider yourself a good listener? Do you like working with people?
We'd love to meet you!*

Position Title: In-community Interviewer (multiple positions - number of positions will depend on size of community)

Location: Your home community

Payment: $53/hr (number of hours may vary)

Duration: January to July 2024, with a possibility of an extension (hours are based on the number of days the survey is taking place in your community)

Training: Attendance at one training is required; training will be provided in 8 selected communities and in additional communities as required

Job Responsibilities:

- Attend 9-day paid training (may require travel; travel costs will be covered)
- Provide support and background information on the project, respond to participant questions and provide information on the next steps
- Contact participants to notify them of their selection for survey participation and schedule interviews
- Ask survey questions and follow required Interviewer guidelines and protocols
- Attend community event before the survey session and pass out information on the survey
- Ensure safe storage of tablets and data
- Attend team meetings
- Demonstrate a positive attitude and respect for Inuit Qaujimajatuqangit
- Perform other duties as assigned

Skills

- Good listening and communication skills, patience, caring and compassionate
- Speaks English, Inuktitut is an asset (Interpreter will be onsite)
- Accountability and dependability
- Ability to work independently and as a team player

Preference will be given to Inuit enrolled under the Nunavut Agreement.

Nunavut Tunngavik Incorporated (NTI) is responsible for administering the QNIHS in Nunavut. The QNIHS Nunavut Travelling Interviewers are temporary positions. The duration of the position may vary depending on the size of the community and the number of communities you will visit. The length of time for each community visit will be determined prior to the launch of the QNIHS.

About the Qanuippitaa? National Inuit Health Survey

Qanuippitaa? National Inuit Health Survey (QNIHS) is an ongoing Inuit-owned survey that will be conducted every five years. The Nunavut component of the survey will begin in 2024.

The QNIHS will provide an overall picture of the health and well-being of Inuit in all regions – what is going well and what needs to be improved. The survey will ask questions that focus on many topics including food and nutrition, mental wellness, substance use, and culture and identity, among others.

The QNIHS data collection will take place in every community across Inuit Nunangat – Nunavut, the Inuvialuit Settlement Region, Nunavik, and Nunatsiavut. In Nunavut, the survey will ask the same questions across all regions of Inuit Nunangat, as well as questions specific to Nunavut. Participants will be randomly selected from all Inuit in Nunavut.

To apply for the jobs please email QNIHS@castlemain.com.